PREFACE

THE beginning of the immigrant's life in America is usually full of difficulties. He suddenly finds himself in the midst of new scenes, new customs, and usually a new language, which together make him an easy prey for unscrupulous men of all races, who are ready to cheat him under the pretense of friendship and help.

If he violates some custom or ordinance that he does not understand, and finds himself arrested as a lawbreaker, his experience may lead him to hate the seemingly unjust laws of his new country and to set himself against them. If some interpreter or court attendant takes advantage of the immigrant's ignorance and terror and extorts a large part of his little capital as the alleged price of a judicial decision, he naturally considers all American courts venal and corrupt. Thus he may be started, through pure ignorance, toward the attitude of a defiant law-breaker.

As this has its dangers for the country as well as for the immigrant, the welfare of both demands that these newcomers (to whom this nation owes much for the new blood, energy, industry, and wealth which have enriched its life) be made acquainted immediately with the language, customs, and laws of their new homeland.

To meet this demand, evening classes for foreigners have been established in many communities. These classes are attended for the most part by men who have worked hard all day in the ditch, on the road, or in the factory.

It is not possible to hold the attention of learners of this kind to exercises which, through the use of a great variety of words and expressions, are difficult of comprehension, nor do they like the subject matter of books which deal with topics such as the "black cat of my old aunt"; they are eager for knowledge that will be of practical use to them.

The lessons contained in this book seek not only to teach the English suited to the immediate needs of the immigrant, but also to acquaint him with some of the simple customs and laws of the United States, and the reasons for the same, and also to present the fundamental laws which govern our republic.

The writer of this brief preface believes that Civics for Americans in the Making is a real contribution to those who seek to turn the crowds of incoming aliens into groups of loyal American citizens.

JOSEPH T. ALLING,

Member of the New York-New Jersey Committee of the North American Civic League for Immigrants.

INTRODUCTION BY THE AUTHOR

THE fact that there is a general appeal on the part of the foreigner in this country for knowledge concerning the principles of our government, is widely recognized by teachers of foreign classes both in evening and in day schools. In the former the teacher has to meet directly this demand made by the adult pupil for information which will enable him to qualify for naturalization.

This interest in the subject of our government may be regarded as a hopeful sign; for, in a republic where the people establish their own constitutions and choose their own rulers, good government is hardly to be looked for, if those from whom it is to proceed have no knowledge of the things that are necessary to create and maintain it. With this thought in mind, the following simple lessons in civics have been prepared.

A very limited vocabulary has been used in presenting the subject. Technical words have been introduced slowly and have been developed in the gradual progress of the work. By the general arrangement of one-line sentences throughout the book, the learner is easily led to the acquisition of the ideas upon which the main thought of each lesson is based.

Topics have been limited, for the most part, to a single page in order that the complete unfolding of the main thought may be accomplished in a concise manner in a short period, and because of the adaptability of the book, under this plan, to pupils whose attendance is likely to be irregular.

At the end of the book ~~will be found~~^{there is} a vocabulary with translations into Italian, German, Swedish, Polish, French, Greek, and Yiddish. The vocabulary consists not merely of the words used in the text of the book; it also includes all the words that occur in the various blank forms used in the process of naturalization, for money orders, etc.

The experience of years in the use of these lessons, both by the author and by other teachers of foreign classes, has given the author inspiration and courage to submit them to a wider circle of teachers and pupils, where it is hoped they may prove equally satisfactory.

The author takes pleasure in acknowledging indebtedness to Miss Jessie M. Shedd, under whose supervision these lessons were first given; to the Reverend Dr. G. B. F. Hallock, for help in arranging them for publication; to the Honorable William W. Armstrong, for information which has been helpful in securing accuracy of statement; and to Mr. Joseph T. Alling, who has written the preface.

Men's Work

Work in the Home

DEPARTMENTS OF CITY WORK

Work is divided in the Home

The father works to buy food, clothing, and fuel for his family.

The mother works in the home.

She cooks the food.

She keeps the house clean.

She sees that the children are kept clean.

It is her duty to send them to school on time.

The mother has many home duties.

The children go to school.

They have school duties.

They have also a few home duties.

The father has his part of the work to do.

The mother has her part of the work to do.

The children have their part of the work to do.

We see that the work of the home is divided into parts.

The work of the city is also divided into parts or de-part-ments.

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT

A Busy City Street

Let us take a walk on this city street.
We see wagons, automobiles, etc.
These vehicles keep to their own side of the street.
We meet Mr. Brown.
We stand to talk with him.
Do we stand in the middle of the sidewalk?
No, we must not obstruct the sidewalks.
Some boys are on their way home from school.
They start to play ball, but they see a policeman coming, and away they run.

We see that vehicles keep to their own side of the street.

We see that the sidewalks are not obstructed.

We see that games with a ball are not to be played in the city streets.

What is the use of this order in the streets? For the safety and comfort of people, and also for the safety of property.

We enjoy our walk.

We return to our homes.

We go to sleep in peace and quiet.

We feel that our lives and property are protected.

The city helps to protect lives and property.

Every city has a Police Department.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

Firemen and Engine

See the brave firemen! They put out fires.

They are members of the Fire Department.

They protect property and lives.

Every city has a Fire Department.

The Chief of the Fire Department directs the men in their work.

The city helps to protect property and lives from fire.

It is also our duty to help in this work.

PREVENTION OF FIRES

Many a bad fire has been started through carelessness with matches.

We must be careful with matches.

They should be kept out of the reach of children.

They should be kept out of the reach of mice and rats.

Mice and rats have started many fires by nibbling the ends of matches.

We must be careful with kerosene oil.

It should be kept in a safe place.

Lamps should not be filled at night.

Lamps should not be within reach of children.

Fires often start without matches or flames.

Such fires often start among dirty rags and papers.

Let us all help to protect lives and property from fire.

THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

A Telephone Call for the Doctor

John: Please may I use your telephone to call the doctor, Mr. Ross? The baby is very sick.

Mr. Ross: Certainly, John. Do you know the doctor's telephone number?

John: No, I do not.

Mr. Ross: Do you know how to find his number in the book?

John: I think so. Yes, here I find his name: "Green, C. R., M.D., 37 White St., Union-6998-S."

Telephone Operator: Number?

John: Union-6-9-9-8-S.

Telephone Operator: The line is busy.

(John waits, then tries again.)

Telephone Operator: Number?

John: Union-6-9-9-8-S.

Telephone Operator: I do not understand you.

Mr. Ross: Speak slowly, John, and not too loudly.

John: Union-6-9-9-8-S.

Dr. Green: Dr. Green's office.

John: May I talk with Dr. Green?

Dr. Green: This is Dr. Green talking with you.

John: I am John Bruno. The baby is very sick. Will you please come at once?

Dr. Green: What is the matter with her?

John: I do not know. She has a high fever.

Dr. Green: I will come very soon, John.

John: Thank you, Doctor. Thank you, Mr. Ross.

Speak Slowly and not too Loudly

THE DOCTOR'S VISIT

Doctor, Nurse, and Sick Child

Your baby is very sick, Mrs. Bruno.
If you are not very careful she will die.
You must keep her out of the hot sun.
Do not bounce her up and down in that way.
Keep her very quiet.

Feed her nothing but milk.

Sometimes give her a little water, but not ice-water.

Wash out that bottle every time you feed her.

Where did you buy that milk?

It is very dirty. Do not buy milk from Mr.

Blank. His stables are dirty.

I shall report him to the Health Bureau.

Everybody wants good health.

The city helps to keep us in good health.

It is the duty of the city to see that only fresh fruit, fish, and vegetables are sold;

that milk, water, and drugs are pure;

that diseases do not spread;

that children under working age shall not be employed to work;

that births, deaths, and marriages are reported.

All these things are in charge of the Health Department.

TUBERCULOSIS

Doctor's advice to Tubercular Patient

Doctor: You have tuberculosis, but you can be cured.

Do not breathe impure air.

Stay out of doors all you can.

Sleep with your windows wide open at night.

Eat good plain food.

Boil the dishes you use. Do not wash them with other dishes.

Do you know what a germ is?

Some germs are very dangerous.

A germ cannot be seen with the naked eye.

There are dangerous germs in that which you raise from your lungs.

What you spit should be burned. If it is not burned, it will dry, and the germs will get into the air.

Then you will take them into your lungs again.

You could be well cared for at a sanitarium.

Patient: I know that what you tell me is true.

My brother died of tuberculosis two years ago.

My sister died of tuberculosis one year ago.

We were told that tuberculosis was a germ disease—that it would spread.

We were told to be very careful.

I am sorry to say, we were very careless.

One of my friends was cured of tuberculosis at a sanitarium.

I think it will be best for me to go to a sanitarium.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

Men Repairing a Street

We do not throw ashes, rubbish, or garbage in our yards or streets.

We put these things in cans.

The cans are emptied into carts.

The carts carry this refuse away.

We like clean streets.

The streets, parks, bridges, etc., are the property of the city. They are public property.

The work of many men is needed to keep public property in order.

What city department has charge of this work?

The Department of Public Works.

TAXES

Our city has a police department.

Our city has a fire department.

Our city has a health department.

Our city has public schools.

There is a sewer in our street.

Our street is lighted and paved.

All these things cost the city much money.

This money is raised by taxes.

Who pays the taxes in a city?

Everybody living in it.

You say, "I rent the house in which I live."

When you pay rent you help pay taxes.

Your landlord gets the bill for the taxes.

If the taxes are high, your rent will be high.

It is the duty of everybody to pay taxes, because everybody is protected in a city.

The city treasurer has charge of the city money.

He is at the head of the Finance Department of the city.

PART TWO
CITY GOVERNMENT

CITY GOVERNMENT

Why it is Needed

In every home there are rules or little laws.

Every home is a little government.

There could be no order without government.

There could be no government without laws.

Laws are needed to protect people and property.

The laws are to help all the people.

It is the work of the city to carry out the laws made for the protection of people and property.

We see the policemen in our streets.

A part of their work is to keep order in the streets.

Why do boys not play ball in the city streets?

Because they know that ball-playing in the streets is against the law.

It is a part of the policeman's work to make boys obey that law.

MAYOR AND OTHER CITY OFFICERS

There is a Chief of the Fire Department.

There is a Chief of the Police Department.

There is a Chief of the Health Department.

Every department of the city work has its chief officer.

These officers, and the officers under them, execute laws.

They are executive officers.

They belong to the Executive Branch of the city government.

Has your city a Mayor? What is his name?

The mayor is the highest executive officer in the city.

He is chosen by the people of the city.

He represents the people of the whole city.

Many laws are made for the protection of people and property in a city.

The mayor's work is to see that these laws are enforced.

Who make the city laws?

THE CITY LAWMAKERS

How are the city laws made ?

Are they made directly by the people ?

In many cities they are made by men chosen by the people.

These men together are usually called the City Council or Board of Aldermen.

Is our city divided into wards ?

These wards are numbered.

What is the number of the ward in which you live ?

In what ward is your school ?

In city government the aldermen usually represent the wards.

In some cities the board of aldermen is made up of one alderman from each ward.

In some cities the board of aldermen is made up of two aldermen from each ward.

The city council or board of aldermen are city lawmakers.

The city lawmakers belong to the Legislative Branch of the city government.

COURTS AND JUDGES

Mr. White has a large automobile.

He likes to drive it fast.

It is dangerous to life and property to drive at high speed in the city streets.

A Law-Breaker

There is a law against it.

All people must obey that law.

Mr. White was arrested for breaking that law.

He was obliged to appear in court.

The judge fined him twenty-five dollars.

The judge applied the law.

The judges and courts belong to the Judicial Branch of the government.

This is the branch of government which applies laws.

Which branch of government makes the laws?

Which branch of government executes the laws?

Which branch of government applies the laws?

SUMMARY

We see that government is like a tree.

It has branches.

The three branches are Legislative, Executive, Judicial.

In some cities the Legislative branch is divided into two parts.

There are many departments of the Executive branch:

The Police Department, the Fire Department, the Health Department, and others.

The Judicial branch is made up of courts and judges.

THE CITY CHARTER

Mr. Paul owns his house.

Has he the right to use it as he chooses?

Not if in doing so he takes away his neighbor's rights.

We have many rights, but we must not take away the rights of our neighbors.

The city laws must agree with the City Charter.

The rights of a city are shown by its charter.

The city charter shows what officers the city shall have.

It also shows what are the duties of these officers.

A street car could not run well without a track to guide it.

The city charter is our guide in city government.

The state grants the city its charter.

A Street Car could not run without a Track

COMMISSION FORM OF CITY GOVERNMENT

Commission government has been tried in many cities.

Government under this form is in the hands of a commission of a few men.

They are chosen by the people of the city.

One of these men is the chief officer of the city.

Each of the others has charge of one of the departments into which the work of the city is divided.

In these cities lawmaking is usually done directly by the voters of the city.

A certain number of voters agree that a certain law is needed.

The law is then written out.

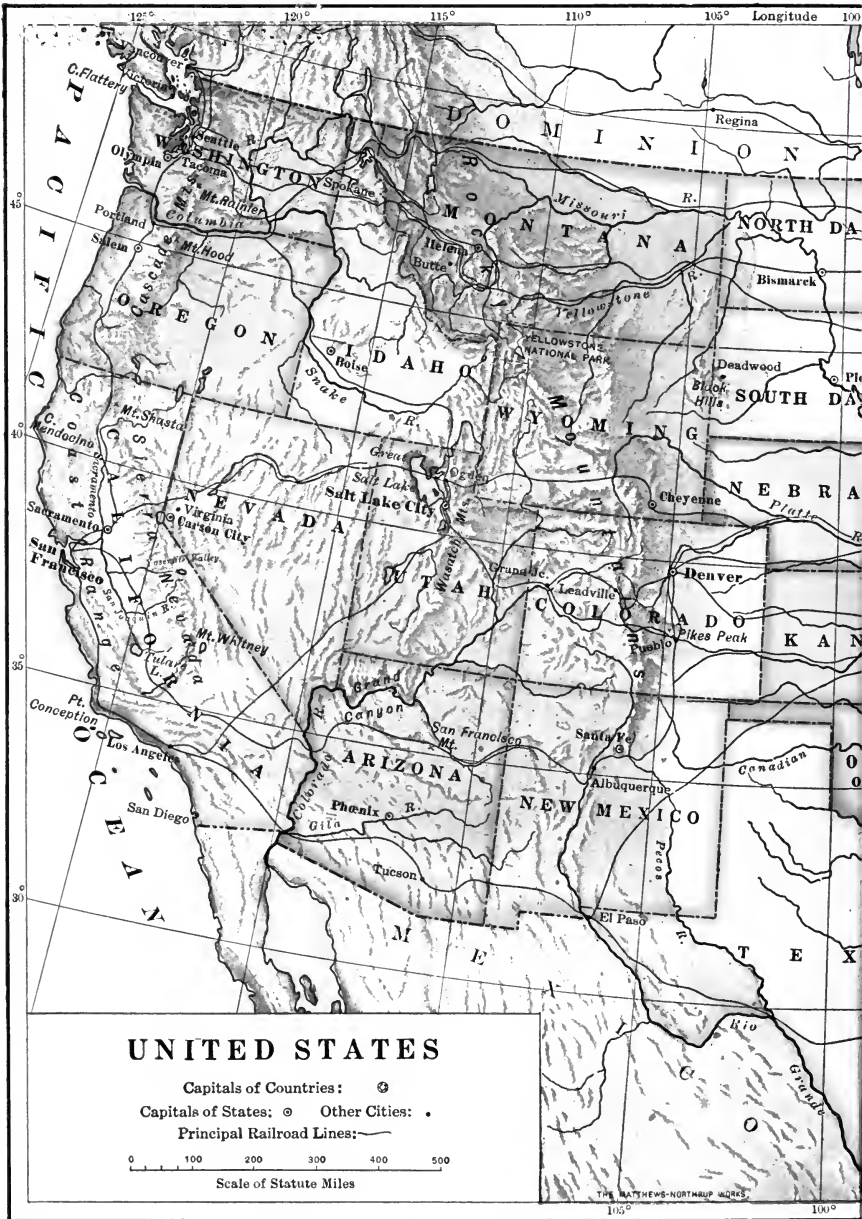

It may then be voted upon by all the voters of the city.

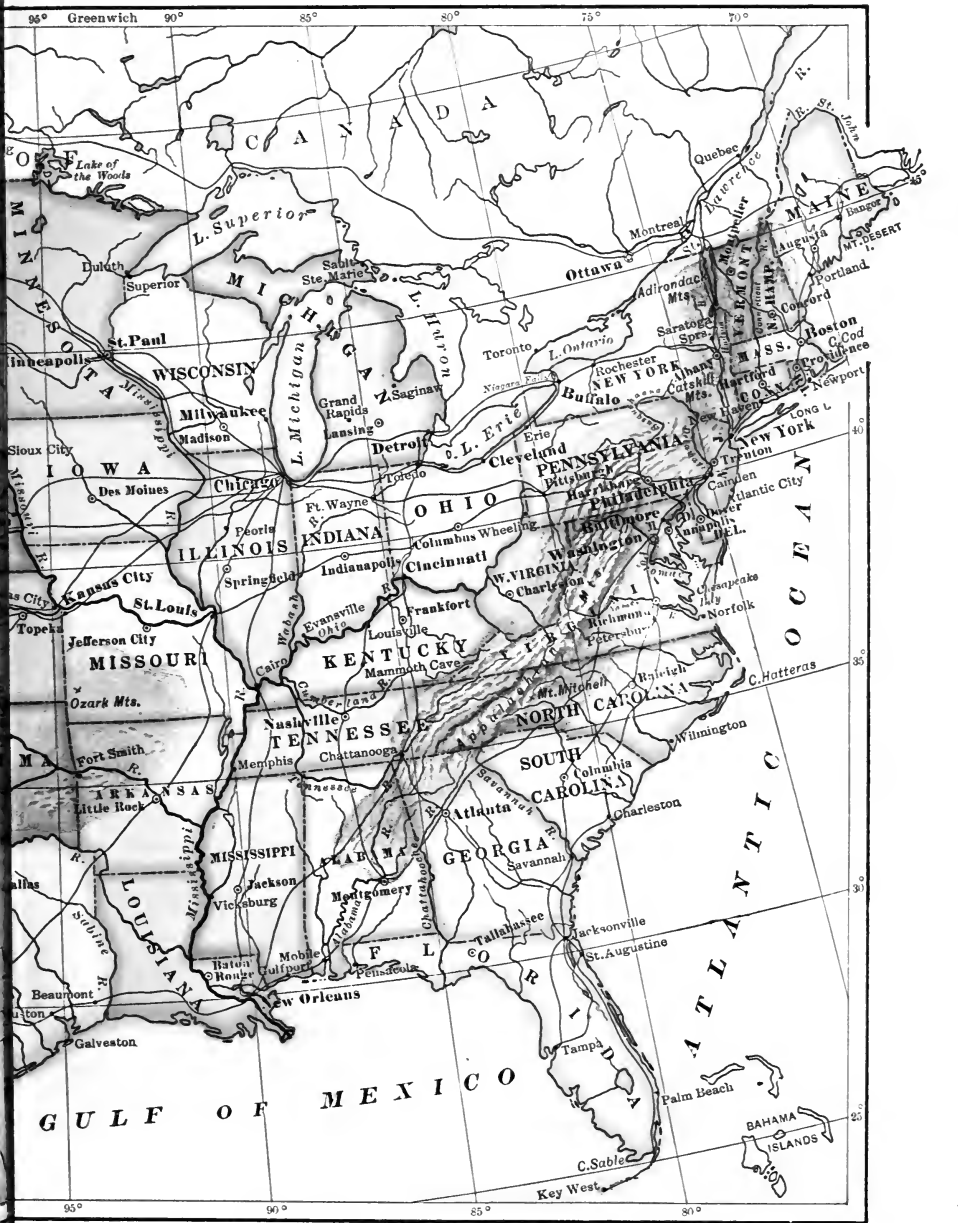

The first step in lawmaking of this kind is called the initiative.

The last step is called the referendum.

PART THREE

STATE GOVERNMENT

City and State

In what city do you live?

Can you find your city on the map?

In what state is it?

Your city belongs to the state.

The state oversees much of the work that is done in its cities.

Much of the work of the police department, fire department, health department, etc., is the execution of state laws.

The city is given its charter by state laws.

City laws are needed to carry out state laws.

Nearly all the laws about streets, sidewalks, parks, etc., are made by the city.

Much money is needed to enforce state laws.

The city tells how a large part of this money shall be spent.

We need good men to care for this public money.

STATE LAWS

State laws are very important.
We need good men to make them.
Where are the state laws made?
At the capital city of the state.
Every state has its capital city.
What is the capital of this state?

STATE LAWMAKERS

There is a state house or capitol in the capital city.
The state lawmakers meet there to make the state laws.
There are two bodies of state lawmakers — the “upper house” and the “lower house.”
The upper house is called the Senate.
What is the name of the lower house in this state?
In many states the lower house of state lawmakers is called the House of Representatives.¹
The two houses, together, are called the Legislature.²

¹Called Assembly in New York state.

²In some states called General Court. In some states called General Assembly.

STATE LAWMAKERS

We see two rooms in a state capitol.

The state lawmakers meet here to make state laws.

There are two bodies of state lawmakers.

Members of the Senate, or upper house, meet in the Senate chamber.

Members of the lower house meet in the Assembly chamber.

These lawmaking bodies are together called the Legislature.

The legislature makes the state laws.

Each member of the legislature has his desk.

The Speaker is the presiding officer of the lower house.

The Speaker is chosen by the members of the house.

Find the Speaker's desk.

The Lieutenant-Governor¹ is the presiding officer of the Senate.

Assembly Chamber

Senate Chamber

Legislative Chambers in New York State Capitol

STATE LAWMAKERS

States are divided into districts.

Each senate district sends a member to the Senate, or upper house of the legislature.

Each district of another kind sends a member to the House of Representatives.¹

The senate districts are larger than the representative districts.

The lower house has the most members.

Making state laws is the work of both houses of the legislature.¹

Either house may begin the work.

A bill must pass both houses before it may become a law.

When it has passed both houses it is sent to the governor to be signed.

If he thinks it is best to refuse to sign it, both houses may act upon it again.

It then becomes a law if the required number of members of both houses vote for it.

¹See note page 29.

SOME LAWS

Laws prohibit:—¹

Spitting on sidewalks or in other public places;

Living in overcrowded rooms;

Carrying dangerous knives or other weapons;

Playing games for money;

Making bonfires in city streets or in vacant lots;

Carrying on certain kinds of business without a license;

Children under working age being employed to

Laws require:—¹

That fire-escapes shall not be obstructed;

That children in good health between the ages of 6 and 14 years shall go to school;

That children who go to school must be vaccinated;

That women working in factories shall not work more than a certain number of hours in a day or of days in a week.

The Schools Teach Useful Lessons

SCHOOLS

The state helps to protect its people.

It also wishes to put the best in life within the reach of its people.

“How does it try to do this?”

Through its schools.

Education teaches people better ways of living.

The state gives its people the right to an education.

Every state has its free schools.

It has kindergarten classes.

It has primary and grammar schools.

It has high schools and colleges.

It has vacation schools.

It has evening schools.

It has trade schools.

It has schools of all kinds and for all purposes.

We see little children in our schools.

We see men more than fifty years old in our schools.

This country is called “The Land of Schools.”

CHILD LABOR LAW

Every child has the right to grow strong and become a useful man or woman.

There are parents who would sell the rights of their children.

There are people who, to become richer, would buy the rights of children.

The state has laws to protect children.

A child who is employed at hard work a certain number of hours each day cannot grow strong.

It is a law¹ that no child under working age shall be employed to work.

The employer of such a child may be arrested and fined.

The most useful people in the world are those who have been educated.

The best in life is not within the reach of people who have not been educated.

A law of the state requires parents to see that their children go to school.

Parents who disobey this law may be arrested and fined.

What may be done with the child who cannot be governed in the home?

The court has the right to take such a child away from his home.

THE STATE CONSTITUTION

Do you belong to a society?

Your society has rules or laws.

Who made those laws?

Your society made those laws.

Is there an Italian society in your city?

Only Italians belong to it. Why?

Because that is one of the laws of the society.

It is one of the fundamental laws.

In state government there are fundamental laws.

These fundamental laws are, together, called the State Constitution.

All state laws must agree with the State Constitution.

GOVERNOR AND OTHER EXECUTIVE OFFICERS

Many laws are needed for the protection of people and property in a state.

Many officers are needed to enforce these laws.

The Secretary of State takes care of the state papers.

The Treasurer takes care of the state money.

The Comptroller is the bookkeeper of the state.

The Superintendent of Schools has charge of the schools of the state.

There are many other officers.

The chief officer of the state is the Governor.

Who is the governor of this state?

The people of the state choose the governor.

When a governor is chosen, a lieutenant-governor is also chosen.

In the absence of the governor his place is taken by the lieutenant-governor.

Laws are executed or enforced by the executive branch of government.

BRANCHES OF STATE GOVERNMENT

Let this tree stand for state government.

We see the three main branches: Legislative, Executive, Judicial.

The Legislative branch is divided into two parts.

The Executive branch is also divided.

In the Executive branch we see the following officers: Governor, Treasurer, Comptroller, Superintendent of Schools. There are also many others.

The Judicial branch is made up of courts and judges.

JUDICIAL BRANCH OF STATE GOVERNMENT

Courts and Judges

States are divided into counties.

In what county do you live?

There is a court house in your county.

A Court House

People in your county who break state laws are tried there.

Each county has a court, called the County Court.

Each state has a supreme court.

The highest court of a state is its supreme court.¹

A police court is lower than a state or county court.

On page 21 we read about a police court case.

¹ The highest court in New York state is called Court of Appeals.

In a police court the judge usually decides the case.

Sometimes a case decided in one court is heard again in a higher court.

Then we say the case is appealed.

Government has its judicial branch.

This branch explains and applies laws.

JURY AND WITNESSES

Cases tried in a county or a state court are usually decided by a jury.

A jury is a body of twelve men whose names have been chosen "by lot."

Almost any citizen may be called upon to act on a jury.

People are often called upon to tell in court what they know about a case on trial.

They are called witnesses.

A witness in court takes an oath to tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

When a witness under oath tells what is not true, he may be arrested and sent to prison.

COUNTIES

As each state has its capital city, so each county has its county seat.

The court house is at the county seat.

We find important papers of the people at the court house; such as deeds, wills, etc.

Lawmaking in a county is done by a County Board.¹

This board also helps to carry out, or execute laws.

The chief executive officer of a county is the sheriff.

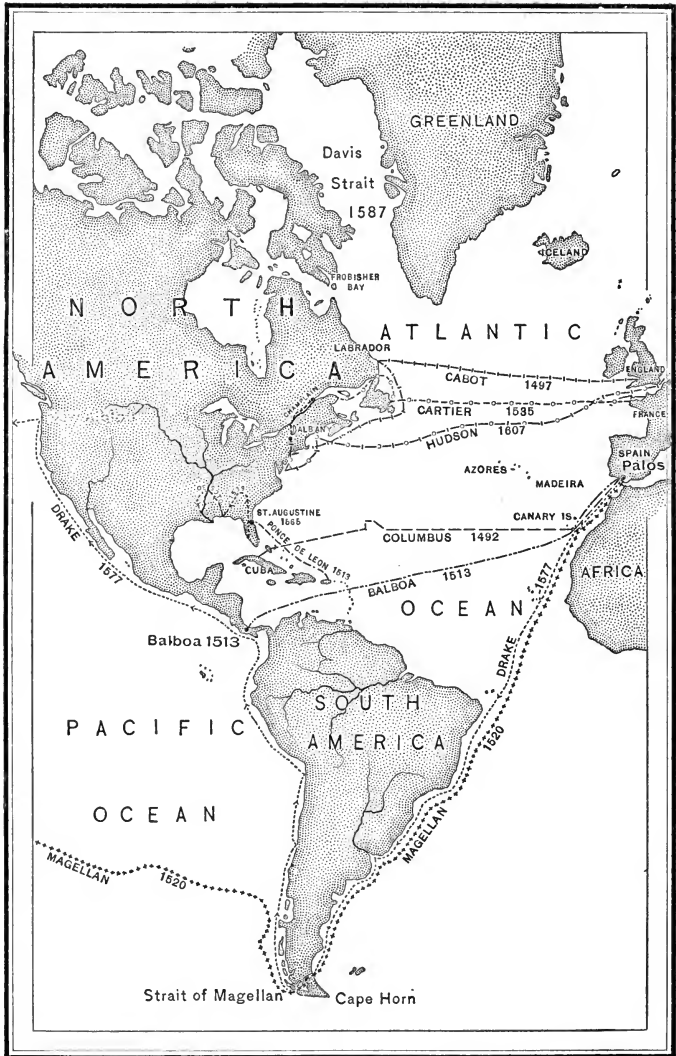

The sheriff has charge of the jail and prisoners.

Other county officers are the county clerk, the county treasurer, the county superintendent, the state or district attorney.

AMERICA

Map Showing Routes of Early Explorers

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

This little boat is nearing a new land.
It has been on its journey many weeks.
You know the name of its brave commander.
All the world knows of Christopher Columbus.
All the world knows of his great discovery of America, October 12, 1492.

HOW AMERICA WAS DISCOVERED

Everybody likes stories.

Many stories are told by maps.

We can read maps as we read books.

We see that Columbus sailed from Spain.

He landed on an island.

Now find the line marked "Voyage of John Cabot."

John Cabot was born in Italy, but in 1497 he was living in England.

He sailed from England to America in that year.

The next year Cabot's son sailed to America.

He landed on an island his father had discovered.

He also went on to the mainland.

There he planted the English flag.

Later that land was held by the French.

It was ruled again by the English after many wars with the French.

To-day, England rules all of Canada.

HOW AMERICA WAS NAMED

We have seen how America was discovered.

Let us see how it was named!

Amerigo Vespucci, in 1499, sailed to this country.

Amerigo Vespucci

He landed on the mainland of South America. He made two other voyages to the New World. When he went back to Europe he wrote about what he had seen.

This account was printed and many people read it. The New World had no name until 1507.

In that year a writer, wishing a name for it, said, "The New World having been discovered by Amerigo or Americus, we will call it America."

So we see the word America on two large continents, North America and South America.

FIRST IMMIGRANTS TO AMERICA

The Spaniards discovered America.

Then people of other nations came.

Many of them found that America was a good place for homes. Many of them settled in America.

They settled in colonies.

There were Spanish colonies.

There were French colonies.

There were Dutch colonies.

There were English colonies.

There were also colonies of other nations.

Most of the first settlers in this country were English.

That is why the language of this country is English.

The first immigrants to America had a hard time.

Many of them were poor.

Often they had not enough to eat.

At first they had no houses.

Their lives were often in danger from wild animals and wild Indians.

THE PILGRIMS

Copyright by Detroit Photographic Co.

This boat is the Mayflower.

It brought the Pilgrims to America.

The Pilgrims came from England.

They were among the first immigrants to America.

They found no white people in America.

They found no houses in America.

They found Indians and wigwams.

The Pilgrims were brave men and women.

Brave men and women built up this beautiful country. They honored America.

If we honor America, we honor our native country.

When we sing "America" we sing

"Land of the Pilgrims' pride."

The Pilgrims were proud of America.

America has always been proud of the Pilgrims.

My country, 'tis of thee,

Sweet land of liberty,

Of thee I sing;

Land where my fathers died,

Land of the Pilgrims' pride;

From every mountain side,

Let freedom ring.

My native country, thee,

Land of the noble free,

Thy name I love.

I love thy rocks and rills,

Thy woods and templed hills;

My heart with rapture thrills,

Like that above.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

The Pilgrims' Thanksgiving

The Pilgrims cut down trees and built houses.

They planted corn and vegetables.

The next winter they had enough to eat.

They said, "God has been good to us.

We will thank Him for His goodness."

They had a day of thanksgiving.

They asked some Indians to unite with them.

That was the first Thanksgiving Day.

Now, the American people have Thanksgiving Day every year.

THE THIRTEEN COLONIES

A Colonial Kitchen

There were thirteen colonies along the coast from Maine to Florida.

At first these colonies were under the rule of the country from which they came.

Later, England ruled over them all.

The colonists were asked to pay taxes to England.

At last these taxes became very heavy.

The colonists said, "We will not pay them."

Then the King of England sent soldiers to force the colonists to pay.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Ring! Ring the Liberty Bell!

There are crowds of people in the streets.

They hear the bell and they rejoice.

What does it tell?

It tells the people they are free.

Soon the story is heard over all the land.

The colonies no longer belong to England.

They are independent of England.

The Declaration of Independence is signed.

It was signed by the colonists themselves.

It was signed at Philadelphia, July 4, 1776.

The Fourth of July marks the birthday of our independence as a nation.

The Liberty Bell

In Independence Hall, Philadelphia

“It rang for liberty —

To tell the world that liberty means love,

And love of man for man makes nations free.”

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The trouble between England and the colonies lasted ten years.

It was ended by the war of the American Revolution.

In this war George Washington was a great leader. He was the Commander-in-Chief of the American army.

All nations see in him a wise, great, and good man. The country became free from England.

A new government was to be made.

Some of the officers under George Washington wished to make him a ruler.

They offered him a crown.

He said, "I have fought to make this country free from crowned rulers."

He refused their offer of power.

George Washington is called "The Father of his Country."

He was born in Virginia, February 22, 1732.

He died December 14, 1799

THE STARS AND STRIPES

Every nation has its flag.

Every flag has its story — its history.

We see stars and stripes in our flag.

We count forty-eight stars in our flag.

We count forty-eight states in our country.

The Declaration of Independence had made each colony a state.

There were thirteen original states.¹

Our first flag had thirteen stars.

Let us count the stripes! Thirteen — never more nor less.

The number of stripes in our flag tells us the number of original states in our country.

The number of stars tells us the number of states in our country to-day.

The stripes tell us of the past.

The stars tell us of the present.

The flag stands for the nation.

To honor the flag is to honor the nation.

“’Tis the star-spangled banner ;
Oh, long may it wave
O’er the land of the free
And the home of the brave.”

RIGHTS AND DUTIES

“I won’t,” said John.

“You will,” said Mary.

“These are my tools. I have the right to use them as I please.”

“You have no right to make so much noise,” said Mary. “I have the right to read my book in peace.”

And so they quarreled.

When Mrs. White came in she found the children very unhappy.

“I know you are interested in your book, Mary. I know you are interested in your work, John,” said the mother.

“You are both interested also in your home.

“Your home is a common interest. It is the duty of you both to make it a happy home. That is your common duty.”

“It is true, you have many rights.

“Where there are rights there are also duties.

“Common duty is the foundation of freedom.”

OUR COMMON CONVENIENCE

A Common Interest

How slowly that horse jogs along!

“What has the rider in that bag?”

That is a mail bag.

It is on the road from New York to Boston.

A Post-Rider

This will be a seven days' journey.

Letters were carried in this way in George Washington's time.

There were no conveniences for carrying mail in those days.

To-day we find everything very convenient for sending and receiving letters.

Everybody likes to receive letters.

We enjoy a common convenience in our postal service.

It is one of the common interests of the nation.

OUR COMMON PROTECTION

A Common Interest

What steamship brought you to America?

At what port did you arrive?

Were you in danger while going into port?

“No, there was no danger.”

Were there not dangerous rocks along the coast?

“Yes, but there are lighthouses to show people where these dangerous rocks are.”

Sailors will keep away from these dangerous rocks.

Lighthouses also direct the sailors on their way.

The United States has a long coast line.

There are many dangerous rocks on the coast.

People from all the states travel by water.

The rocks are a common danger.

Lighthouses are a common protection.

Our common protection is a common interest.

THE STATES UNITED

History tells us how the thirteen¹ new states learned a lesson.

Each state had the right to govern itself, as it has to-day.

But the states formed a central government for protection and convenience.

Each state thought only of its own protection.

Each state thought only of its own convenience.

It thought only of its own interests.

It thought only of its own rights.

The states would give no rights to the central government.

Therefore the central government was very weak.

Soon the states began to quarrel with each other.

The central government could not help them.

Then the states saw that they were not really united.

¹The thirteen original states were New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

THE UNITED STATES

The states said, "Our common protection is a common interest.

Our common convenience is a common interest.

We have many common interests.

Let us unite for the common good of all."

That is what we mean by the word Nation:—

United for the Common Good of All.

The people had learned that common duty was the foundation of freedom.

People of the states met in convention.

They made a set of laws called the United States Constitution.

The states gave to the central government the right to care for the common interests of the nation.

Each state kept all other rights of government for itself.

The purpose of our national government is shown in the Pre-amble of the United States Constitution.

UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION

The Pre-amble

“We, the people of the United States, in order

1. To form a more perfect Union ;” — to be united :

2. “To establish Justice ;” —

equal rights to all :

3. “To insure domestic Tranquillity ;” —

peace among ourselves :

4. “To provide for the Common Defense ;” — protection against unfriendly nations :

5. “To promote the general Welfare ;” —

the common good of all :

6. “To secure the blessings of Liberty ; do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.”

So was founded the United States.

So has it become one of the great nations of the world.

Signing the Declaration of Independence

PART FIVE

THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

OUR NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

The government of our nation is called our “national” or “federal” government.

STATE AND NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

The states used their general plan of state government as a pattern for the national government. On page 39 we see the general plan of state government.

Let us compare it with the plan of our national government.

Each has three main branches:—

Legislative, Executive, Judicial.

The legislative branch in state government is called the Legislature, in national government, Congress.

The legislative branch in each is divided into two parts.

What are our state legislative bodies called?

In national government they are called the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Members of the House of Representatives are called Representatives or Congressmen.

Members of both houses of Congress are our national lawmakers.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL CITY

We are on our way to visit a capital city.

In what state is it?

It is not in any of the states.

It is in the District of Columbia.

The District of Columbia was at one time a part of the state of Maryland.

It was cut out of Maryland when the city of Washington was made the national capital.

Washington is only a few hours' ride from New York.

From the northwest corner of our country to our nation's capital is a long journey.

Did you ask how long? More than 3000 miles.

Think of it! Nearly as far as some of you traveled in coming to America.

We see what a large country this is.

It is nearly as large as all Europe.

Officers of our national government from every state in the Union meet at Washington.

THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

This is our first day in Washington.

There are many government buildings to see.

Where shall we begin?

See that beautiful white dome against the blue sky! That is the dome of the capitol.

It is not far away, let us go there first!

We are told that it is the most beautiful building of its kind in the world.

Here we are at the capitol!

We enter! We are within the building where laws are made to govern our nation.

BOTH HOUSES OF CONGRESS

Hall of the House of Representatives

We shall not stop to count all of those desks. We know there must be more than four hundred.

Every representative has his desk.

The chair with the flag is the Speaker's chair.

The Speaker is the presiding officer.

The Senate Chamber

There are not so many desks in the senate chamber.

The senate numbers ninety-six members.

Two members from each state make up our United States Senate.

The Vice President of the United States is the presiding officer of the Senate.

UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVES

How are the representatives chosen?

They are chosen by the people in the different states for a term of two years.

How many are sent from each state?

That depends upon the population of the state.

When the national Constitution was made, the population of our country was divided into groups of about 30,000 each.

These divisions of the country were called congressional districts.

The size of the congressional districts has changed much since the first division.

Our population now numbers nearly one hundred millions.

The congressional districts of our country now number more than four hundred.

Each of these districts sends its own representative, or congressman, to Washington.

Each United States representative must represent about the same number of people.

THE CENSUS

That man is going from house to house.

He has a large book.

We wonder what that book contains.

He will not tell us.

Neither will he tell our neighbors.

He will call upon us.

He will ask us many questions.

Census Taker

We may safely answer them.

He has the right to ask them.

He is an officer of the United States government.

He is a census taker.

If you doubt it, ask him to show you his badge.

The United States census is taken every ten years.

Once in ten years the people of the United States are counted.

When the whole number of people is known, it is easy to group them for congressional districts.

THE UNITED STATES SENATE¹

Two senators from each state make up our United States Senate.

Little Rhode Island sends as many senators to Washington as the large state of Texas.

The states have equal power in the United States Senate.

United States Senators are chosen by the legislatures of the different states.

United States Senators are chosen for six years. One-third go out of office every two years.

The Senate of the United States represents the states.

How does it represent the people?

The people choose the members of the state legislature.

The members of the state legislature choose the United States Senators.

All roads in our government can be traced to the people.

¹This lesson can be taught best by use of map. See pages 26 and 27.

TO DECIDE TOO QUICKLY MAY BE TO DECIDE UNWISELY

“Mother, may I go to the park to-morrow?”

“I cannot decide now. I shall talk the matter over with your father.”

“That is what you always say, and father says, ‘I shall talk the matter over with your mother.’”

“Yes, we think it best not to decide too quickly.

“To decide too quickly may be to decide unwisely.”

That was also the thought of the makers of our Constitution.

For this reason we have two houses of Congress. A majority¹ vote of both houses is necessary before a bill may become a law.

The bill is then sent to the President to be signed. If he does not sign it can it not become a law? Yes, it may pass both houses again.

A bill then becomes a law if it receives a two-thirds vote of both houses.

¹More than one-half.

THE WHITE HOUSE

The White House is the home of the President of our nation.

The White House has been the home of the President and his family since the year 1801.

It was the first public building in Washington. George Washington, who was the first President, never lived there.

The White House is sometimes called the Executive Mansion.

THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH OF THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

The President

Who is the President?

What is his name?

I am sure everybody knows the name of the President.

The office of President is one of great honor.
The President is the first citizen of the United States.

Now let us see what his duties are!

The Constitution says, "He shall take care that the laws are faithfully executed."

Think of it! The laws of this great nation!
Surely, the President has work enough to do.
Our Presidents have been hard-working men.
We have read that Congress makes the laws.
The President's work is to see that they are executed.

The President is the chief executive officer of our nation.

THE PRESIDENT'S CABINET

Congress tells what work shall be done.

The duty of the President is to see that the work is done.

He executes our national laws.

The work of executing our nation's laws is divided into departments.

Each department has its chief officer.

The President has power to appoint these chief officers: they are

Secretary of the State Department;

Secretary of the Treasury Department;

Secretary of the Interior Department;

Secretary of the War Department;

Secretary of the Navy Department;

Secretary of the Agricultural Department;

The Attorney-General;

The Postmaster-General;

The Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

These chief officers are together called the President's Cabinet.

STATE, WAR, AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS

Long ago one nation was the enemy of the other.

To-day this is not so.

To-day business is going on between the governments of all the great nations of the world.

Therefore all great nations have their ministers and consuls in other countries.

This country sends its ministers and consuls to other countries.

Our State Department at Washington has charge of this work.

Passports are given by the State Department.

There are War and Navy Departments in our national government.

Both the army and the navy have a school for the training of officers.

Officers for the army are trained at West Point, New York.

Officers for the navy are trained at Annapolis, Maryland.

THE UNITED STATES TREASURY

Nothing can go on without money.

How is the nation's money collected ?

By taxes on foreign goods, called duty or tariff, and by taxes on goods made in this country, called internal revenue.

DUTY OR TARIFF

“What is the cost of this cloth ?”

“That is two dollars a yard.”

“That is very expensive.”

“Yes, that cloth is imported. Here is some at one dollar a yard. It is just as good, but it was made in this country.”

“ Why are imported goods so expensive ? ”

“ Because goods sent into this country to sell are usually taxed.

This tax is called duty or tariff.”

INTERNAL REVENUE

Do you see the blue stamp on that box of cigars ?

Stamps like this are also to be found on such goods as beer, whisky, etc.

They are called internal revenue stamps.

Internal revenue is a tax on goods made in our own country.

Money collected as internal revenue is sent to the United States Treasury.

Money collected for postage stamps is sent to the United States Treasury.

Money collected as duty or tariff is also sent to the United States Treasury.

The United States Treasury is the great purse of the nation.

THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

What is the work of the Interior Department?
We might call this the "Home Department," because it takes care of the business of our own land.

It takes care of the public lands, copyrights, patents, etc.

We see the word patented on many things.

We find the word copyright in the front of this book and other books.

Patents and copyrights are granted by the Interior Department.

PUBLIC LANDS

Some people have gone to the west and taken up public lands.

These lands can be bought at a very low rate.

Many people do not know of the public lands.

Information about them can be obtained by writing to the Land Office, Washington, D.C.

37 South St., Washington, D.C.

March 14, 1913.

Dear James,

Why have I not received the letter you promised me? Were you careless in addressing it? If so, it may be at the Dead Letter Office.

To-day we saw many dead letters. There were many men and women opening them. You say, "It is against the law to open other people's letters." Yes, it is, but the addresses on these letters were so poorly written, the postman could not read them.

Dead letters are sent back to the writer, if possible. Sometimes the name of the writer cannot be made out. People sometimes lose money and letters in this way, as some of these letters contain money.

It is best to use a postal money-order in sending money by mail. I enclose a blank International Money Order. There are also domestic money orders. Money-orders can usually be bought at all city post-offices.

With kind regards to yourself and family,

Yours very truly,

George S. White.

My dear George,

It was a great pleasure to me to receive your letter. It was forwarded to me from home. I came here the day after you went to Washington. I came here to work. I like my work very much. I am working a fruit farm "on shares." Working in the country will be much better for my health than working in the crowded city. Besides, it costs so much to live in the city.

John and his family are well and happy. They are living on a farm in the West. His children all go to school, but they help a little with the farm work. He writes that they are living well and also saving a little money.

He told me of the abandoned farms in the Eastern states. These are often sold at very low rates. Many of them are good farms.

We wished to know about some abandoned farms. We wrote to the capitals of the states in which these farms are located for information about them. The Department of Agriculture in the states has charge of these matters.

I wish I might be with you on your visit to the Agricultural Department at Washington. I am sure I should find that very interesting.

I hope to hear from you again before you return home.

With kind regards,

Yours truly,

James Bruno.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Building

Shall we enter this building ?

Yes, we can here learn what kinds of plants and fruits are raised in this country.

We can also learn in what parts each kind can best be raised.

Our country has many agricultural interests.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has much work to do.

Among other things, it sends seeds and also information, free of charge, to farmers all over this country.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND LABOR

Immigrants Landing in America

We shall never forget our arrival in America. There were many people at our port of arrival.

We saw many officers of the government there. Did you see one of them write the letters "S. I." on the coat of any new-comer?

This new-comer was kept for Special Inquiry. Perhaps you saw that man on your boat. You thought any country might be glad to be rid of him.

The doors of this country are closed to all who might be a burden to the nation.

Every country has the right to make laws for its protection.

We have many immigration laws.

They protect the country and also protect the immigrant.

A million immigrants every year have been arriving in America.

This large number of new-comers causes many changes in matters of commerce and labor in this country.

Our government has a Department at Washington to look after these interests of the nation.

The Department of Commerce and Labor also carries out our immigration laws.

It takes care of the United States census.¹

It provides for lighthouses.²

It has also a Division of Naturalization.³

³ See pages 116, 118, 119.

JUDICIAL BRANCH OF NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

United States Supreme Court Room

The United States Supreme Court consists of nine judges called Justices.

This is the highest court in the land.

The lowest national courts are called district courts.

There are many district courts, each having its judge.

There are also circuit courts of appeals.

SUMMARY

We leave Washington to-day.

We have visited both houses of Congress, where our nation's laws are made.

We have also visited departments where we saw the execution of these laws.

We found that our nation's laws are not executed by the men who make them.

We visited the Supreme Court room.

The judges are not given a part in the making or in the execution of laws.

The power of each of the three branches of our government must be kept separate.

Some countries have the power of the three branches of government held by one person.

Such a government is called an "absolute monarchy."

Russia is an absolute monarchy.

The United States is not a monarchy.

It is a republic.

In a republic the people rule.

PART SIX

OUR REPUBLIC

OUR REPUBLIC

How the People Rule

We read on page 61 how the new states learned a lesson.

Perhaps they said as some people say to-day,
“What is the use of government?”

The states found that they needed a government for convenience and also for protection.

Then the people united.

They said, “The people of this land shall be free; they shall choose their rulers.”

They shall govern through their rulers.

They shall govern by written law.

Our United States Constitution¹ is a written law.

It is the highest law of the land.

By this law United States government officers must be chosen by the people.

They may be chosen from any class of people.

ELECTION DAY

This is Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

On this day men go to the polls to vote.

What are the polls?

What is the meaning of the word vote?

To vote means to choose.

The polls are the voting places.

An Election Booth

At the polls we see how the people rule.

After the polls close, the votes or ballots are counted.

More than one half of all the votes cast is a majority.

Sometimes no one candidate has a majority.

Then the candidate having the most votes for any office has a plurality.

The candidate having the most votes for an office is elected.

He is elected to do the work of our government. If the voters are good and wise men, they will vote for good men to do the work of our government.

In a republic the government is like the people.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS

On election day we see many polling places in a city.

Why are there so many polling places?

For the convenience of voters.

Can a man vote at more than one of these polling places on election day?

No, he cannot.

He cannot vote outside of the election district in which he lives.

How may it be known that a man votes but once on election day?

Let us see!

Some time before election day, you may have seen signs like this:—

VOTERS REGISTER HERE

These signs were in different parts of the city.

One of these signs was to be found in every election district.

Voters registered their names at these places.

There were election officers at these places.

It was the work of these officers to see that no one registered his name who had not the right to do so.

These officers require a man to answer certain questions before he may register his name.

A voter registers his name in the election district in which he lives.

A man cannot vote unless his name has been registered.¹

When a man votes his name is marked, and he cannot vote again on that election day.

¹This is the law in nearly all cities.

VOTING

The voting is done in booths.

Only one voter at a time is allowed in the booth.

In most cities voting is done by use of a paper ballot.

A Voting Machine

Paper ballots are not used in all cities.

In some cities a voting machine is used.

When a machine is used, voting is done by pulling a lever.

This registers the vote.

A man should know for which candidates he will vote before he enters the booth on election day.

He should also know how to vote for these candidates before he enters the booth on election day.

ELECTIONS

Elections are usually held in October or November.

City officers are elected by voters of the city.

County officers are elected by voters of the county.

State officers are elected by voters of the state.

A presidential election is held every four years.

The President is not elected directly by the people.

He is elected by a number of men called "electors."

These electors are chosen by the people.

A Vice President is elected at the same time and in the same way as the President.

Each state has as many electors as it has senators and representatives in Congress.

These electors elect the President.

The President and Vice President must be native citizens of this country.

They must have reached the age of thirty-five years.

a ballot, November, 1910.

NOMINATION OF CANDIDATES FOR ELECTION

On a ballot we see the names of candidates for election.

Who named these candidates for election?

They were named or "nominated" before election day by different gatherings of people.

These gatherings were called caucuses, primaries, and conventions.

The primary or ward meeting is the lowest convention.

It is also the most important convention.

Much depends upon the work done by the primaries.

At the primaries, nominations are made directly by the people.

The work of county, state, or national conventions is usually done by representatives of the people, or delegates.¹

The ward people send delegates to the county convention.

The county convention sends delegates to the state convention.

The state convention sends delegates to the national convention.

Each political party has its caucuses, primaries, and conventions.

These conventions appoint delegates, and also name candidates for election.

The ward candidates are usually named at the primaries.

The county candidates are usually named by the county convention.

The state candidates are usually named by the state convention.

The national convention nominates the candidates for President and Vice President of the United States.

The national convention is made up of national delegates.

Let us say Mr. X—— was a candidate for President.

Who nominated him? Delegates to the national convention of his political party.

Who were these delegates? They were men appointed by the delegates to the state conventions.

Who appointed the state delegates? The county delegates.

Who appointed the county delegates? The people who met together in the towns and wards of cities.

Each convention meets when called together by its committee.

Each political party has its committee.

One of the duties of these committees is to bring before the people the questions between the parties.

This is done through the newspapers and by public meetings.

The committees have duties of different kinds.

POLITICAL PARTIES

Your ballot¹ shows that there are several political parties.

There were political parties in this country as early as the year 1776.

They were called "Whigs" and "Tories."

The Tories did not wish independence from England.² The people who wished their independence were called "Whigs."

Since that time many questions have come up to divide the voters.

One of these questions has been, "Shall we have free trade or shall we have a tariff?"³

The wish of the people is shown by the vote.

We will uphold the wish of the greatest number of people.

A good citizen not only obeys laws which he likes; he also obeys laws which he does not like.

Our form of government is a good one. We will uphold it even if our candidate is not elected.

A QUESTION WHICH DIVIDED THE VOTERS IN 1860

The question of slavery at one time divided the voters in this country.

A slave is a person who is not free.

He can be bought and sold like a horse.

The black or colored people in this country are called negroes.

The first negroes in America were brought here as slaves in the early days of the colonies.

At one time most of the people of the South thought slavery was right.

Most of the people of the North thought slavery was wrong.

The question had not been settled in 1860.

It became time to elect another President.

One political party named Abraham Lincoln for President.

Abraham Lincoln thought slavery did no one any good.

The question of slavery divided the voters.

THE CIVIL WAR

“We will leave the Union,” said some of the Southern states.

The question now became, “Shall the Union of States be saved or shall it be divided?”

This question caused a Civil War.

During the war President Lincoln set millions of slaves free.

The war lasted four years.

Then peace was made and the Union was saved.

The North and South became friends once more.

To-day we are all one Great Nation.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln was born February 12, 1809, in a log cabin in Kentucky.

When he was a boy, he worked as a laborer on a farm.

House in which Abraham Lincoln was born

Night was the only time he had for study.
By hard and patient work he rose higher and higher. He became a great man.
He was the leader in saving the Union.
In America, the son of the poorest man may become the greatest in the land.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE IS GIVEN AS A TRUST

A man's family is given to him as a trust.

It is his duty to protect his family.

It is his duty to work for the good of his family.

The right to vote is given as a trust.

This right is given for the public good.

It should be used for the public good.

A man should not vote for his own interests alone.

He should vote for the common good of all.

We see that a vote is not a thing to be bought or sold.

The man who buys or sells a vote is guilty of a great crime.

The voter has it in his power to make our government good or bad.

The best government in the world will go down if it is in the hands of bad men.

As men wish to live under a good government, a man in this country will wish to be a voter.

WHO MAY VOTE

Who are the voters ?

In all the states men are allowed to vote.

In many states women vote only for officers of schools.

In a few states women may vote on a state ballot.

We see that the right to vote is given by state laws.

It is not given by national laws.

A man might have the right to vote in one state who would not have that right in another.

In nearly all the states two things must be true of the man who votes:—

He must have reached the age of twenty-one.

He must be a citizen of the United States.

CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES

There are two classes of people in America:—
native and foreign born.

Native-born people are those who were born in this country.

Foreign-born people are those who were born in some other country.

All of the native-born people are citizens of this country.¹

In both classes are men, women, and children.

We see that men, women, and children may be citizens of this country.

Any child whose father is a native citizen is a citizen of this country.

A foreign woman may become an American citizen if she marries an American citizen.

An American woman loses her citizenship if she marries a man who has not given up his citizenship to a foreign country.

Citizens who have been guilty of high crimes may sometimes lose their citizenship.

Foreign-born people may become American citizens.

¹ A child born to foreign parents who are merely on a visit to this country is not an American citizen.

NATURALIZED CITIZENS

There are two classes of citizens in America:—
native and foreign born.

Both classes have equal rights.

A foreign-born citizen has all the rights that belong to the native-born citizen.

He has the same right to protection.

He has the same right to take part in the election of officers of our government.

He has the same right to hold office¹ under our government.

The poor and down-trodden of other countries may in this country become the greatest among men.

We read in the National Constitution:—

“All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States.”

Foreign-born citizens are called naturalized citizens.

¹Except that of President and Vice President of the United States.

PART SEVEN

NATURALIZATION

One flag, one land, one heart, one hand,
One nation, evermore. — HOLMES.

NATURALIZATION

*A Petitioner for Naturalization*¹

Mr. Poland is a native of Russia.

He came to America to earn his living.

He has chosen America for his home.

Mr. Poland wishes to become an American citizen.

He will ask a court of the state in which he lives to make him an American citizen.

He will go before the court with two witnesses.

A petitioner for naturalization and his witnesses are asked to prove:—

1. That the petitioner is a good man;
2. That he has lived in this country at least five years, continuously—that is, year after year;
3. That he has lived at least one year in the state;
4. That he has reached the age of twenty-one;
5. That it is at least two years since he obtained his Declaration of Intention.

¹ The cost to the petitioner for filing his petition for naturalization in court is four dollars.

DECLARATION OF INTENTION OR "FIRST PAPER"

A foreigner who has not been naturalized is called an alien.

An alien in this country may obtain his "First Paper" at any time after he has reached the age of eighteen years.

By going before a court of the state in which he lives, he may obtain a blank called "Facts for Declaration of Intention."¹

This blank, filled out, will be returned to the clerk of the court, who will use it in making out his "Declaration of Intention."

A man may be asked to sign his name in English to his declaration.

When he petitions for naturalization he will need his declaration.

He will need to remember the date of it.

He cannot use it within two years nor after seven years from that date.

THE WITNESSES

The witnesses for the petitioner must be citizens of the United States.

If they are naturalized citizens, they may be asked to show their certificates of naturalization in court.

The witnesses are obliged to prove:—

That they know the petitioner to be a good man ;

That he has been living in this country five years, continuously—that is, year after year ;

That he has lived one year in the state.

The petitioner has the same witnesses at the last hearing that he had at the first hearing.

If for some good reason, a witness in the first case cannot appear at the last hearing, what then is to be done ?

Another witness may take his place.

When such a substitute is to appear, the fact should be made known to the court before the time set for the last or “final hearing.”

THE FINAL HEARING

Mr. Poland's Declaration of Intention, Certificate of Arrival, and Petition for Naturalization have been filed in court ninety days.

He now appears in open court.

There are many petitioners in the court room.

All in the court room stand up.

Another three taps! All are seated.

Mr. Poland's name is called.

The petitioners who are obliged to wait will not lose patience.

Disorder in court is Contempt of Court, for which a man may be arrested and fined.

Mr. Poland and his witnesses step forward.

They raise their right hands when the clerk reads the oath.

They must be ready to answer many questions in open court.

When they mean to answer "yes" or "no" they will not nod or shake their heads.

MR. POLAND IS ADMITTED AS AN AMERICAN CITIZEN

A Naturalization Court

The court decides that Mr. Poland would be a good American citizen.

Mr. Poland, with right hand raised, takes the Oath of Allegiance, which is read by the clerk :

“It is my intention to become a citizen of the United States and to renounce absolutely and forever all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty, and particularly Nicholas II, Czar of Russia, of which I am now a subject, and it is my intention to reside permanently in the United States.”

Mr. Poland receives his Certificate of Naturalization.

He is now an American citizen. Also his wife, and children under twenty-one years of age, are, by this act, American citizens.

They have chosen this country for their home.

They will now love two countries.

They will love the land of their birth.

They will also love the land of their happiness.

They have chosen America above all other lands.

They ought to honor it above all other lands.

America has opened its doors to people of nearly all the nations of the world.

Let us prove to the world that all nations may live together as one nation. Let us all be Americans!

America was made great by the united people of many lands: they were Americans.

If we choose America as our home, obey America's laws, and make our lives useful in America, we are Americans.

Books for Evening Schools

HARRINGTON'S FIRST BOOK FOR NON-ENGLISH-SPEAKING PEOPLE $0.25

LANGUAGE LESSONS FOR FIRST BOOK25

SECOND BOOK FOR NON-ENGLISH-SPEAKING PEOPLE30

This series is the result of twelve years' experience in teaching English to foreigners in both day and evening schools. It is extensively used in all parts of this country, in day schools, night schools, mission schools and by many private organizations of non-English-speaking individuals who wish to learn to write and speak the English language. The series is especially well adapted for use among adult immigrants who have come to this country with little knowledge of its language.

MOORE'S ENGLISH-ITALIAN LANGUAGE BOOK .40

This little book has been prepared especially for the Italian working men and women who come to America. The book is colloquial—the language of every day life—and by its use the diligent Italian can, within three months, acquire a good foundation of English.

FULLER'S PRIMER25

Especially suited to the needs of those with no English vocabulary, as each object word is accompanied with a picture of the object.

DOLE'S THE YOUNG CITIZEN45

Well suited to follow the study of Plass's Civics for Foreigners.
